SEASON PREVIEW

Following a record-breaking 43 wins and the school's first trip to a NCAA Regional in 2009, expectations at Kansas State have risen. The Wildcats will lean on new leaders this season, while the squad must replace all three weekend starters and multiple positions players. However, great athletes with tons of potential litter the roster as K-State regroup and moves forward.

COACHING STAFF

Led by 2009 Big 12 Coach of the Year Brad Hill, Kansas State returns all three assistant coaches from last year's historic season. With more than 50 years combined coaching experience, Hill is joined by Pitching Coach Sean McCann and Hitting Coach Andy Sawyers. Anthony Everman begins his first season in Manhattan as the Volunteer Assistant Coach.

PLAYER PROFILES

Three seniors in Ryan Daniel, Daniel Dellasega and Adam Muenster return for their senior seasons, while Carter Jurica and Nick Martini look to duplicate their All-Big 12 seasons from last year. Thomas Rooke and Justin Lindsey will join Daniel in the starting rotation, while the Cats welcome 17 newcomers, including three who will look to become Opening Day starters.

KANSAS STATE

Kansas State University was founded Feb. 16, 1863, under provisions of the Morrill Act which established land grant colleges. It was initially located on the grounds of the old Bluemont Central College, which was chartered in 1858. The 668-acre main campus is in northern Manhattan (population 50,000) and is convenient to both business and residential districts.

K-STATE BASEBALL
IS ON THE AIR

WALTERS

SMOLLER

Longtime associates of the baseball program, Matt Walters and Brian Smoller begin their 12th year as the primary voices of Kansas State baseball.

Walters is in his 15th year at KMAN where he serves as host of the daily talk show, "The Game" and "Powercat Gameday," a pre-game show for K-State football. Walters also serves as the play-by-play voice of Manhattan High Football and Boys Basketball. He is also the public address announcer for K-State women's basketball and serves as the sideline reporter for K-State football broadcasts and color analyst for select K-State basketball broadcasts on the K-State Sports Network.

Smoller not only handles duties for baseball, but he has also been the play-by-play voice of the Wildcat volleyball team for the last 10 years, and has handled play-by-play duties for K-State women's basketball for the past six. Smoller, a long-time voice at KMAN along with Walters, is in his fourth year at Kansas State as the Sportscasting/Director of Powercat Vision. A 1999 K-State graduate, Smoller has won 16 Kansas Association of Broadcasters awards, including six first place awards for play-by-play. In 2003, Smoller was named the Oscar Stauffer Sportscaster of the Year.

Catch all the excitement of Kansas State baseball on SportsRadio 1350 KMAN all season long. KMAN broadcasts can be heard on both the AM dial at 1350 in Manhattan and the internet at both the KMAN website (www.1350kman.com) and the official site of Kansas State athletics (www.kstatesports.com). Walters and Smoller broadcast all Big 12 games and numerous non-conference games that will be announced at a later date. Baseball SID Ryan Lackey will assist the duo on road games by serving as the color commentator, while the "Voice of the Wildcats," Wyatt Thompson, will serve as the play-by-play voice for network broadcasts.

Also, the Brad Hill Radio Show will air bi-weekly from 7 until 8 p.m. and will be broadcast live from Misty's Bar and Grill in Manhattan. The show is hosted by Smoller and Walters.

Many people outside the confines of Tointon Family Stadium did not think too highly of Kansas State's chances prior to the 2009 season. The Cats, who were coming off a 29-29 campaign in 2008, were predicted to finish ninth in the Big 12 Preseason Coaches' Poll and they did not find their name in a single top 25 ranking.

With a little heart, determination, hustle and a never-say-die attitude, all Kansas State did was finish with a school record 43 wins, advance to its first ever NCAA Regional, finish fourth in the Big 12 and claim a spot in all of the final national polls, including a No. 19 ranking by Baseball America.

The Wildcats had many other accomplishments throughout the 2009 season, including the school's first top-10 ranking, the most Big 12 wins in school history and 11 team or individual records, not to mention Big 12 Coach and Pitchers of the Year honors. But, what stands out in everyone's mind and will be a cornerstone for the Wildcats' rise in the college baseball realm is the way they play the game.

That attitude will be needed again this season as Kansas State lost five position starters and all three weekend starters from a year ago. But, as equally concerning is the loss of experienced leaders.

"We had great leadership on the field, but now we lose six starters and three starting pitchers in A.J. Morris, Lance Hoge and Todd Vogel," said head coach Brad Hill. "There is going to be a lot of new people put into different positions on the field."

Those who will try to fill that void will be three seniors – two of which are entering their fifth year in the program – in Daniel Dellasega, Adam Muenster and Ryan Daniel. The Cats will also rely heavily on the leadership of junior infielder Carter Jurica and sophomore outfielder Nick Martini for the first time in their careers.

"Their role on the field is not going to bother me as much as maybe their role as leaders because it's something that neither one of them have had put upon their shoulders," said Hill of Jurica and Martini.

"The thing about Nick is he is also one of our guys that can keep guys loose," Hill said. "What he's going to have to find is that fine line of when to keep the guys loose and also when it's time to kick it up a notch, get that intense focus and make sure guys are doing the right thing."

The challenge of those leaders will be different than years past as Kansas State will try to build on its first NCAA Regional appearance in school history.

"On the outside, people are looking for us to do it again," Hill continued. "Our goal is to find our identity this year and go from there. I think we are talented and we have great athletes. The key is going to be getting guys comfortable and confident in their roles, learning how to play every day and grinding it out. If that happens, then there's no reason why we shouldn't have those same expectations."

PITCHING

For the first time since 2005, Kansas State must replace all three weekend starters, beginning with the 2009 Big 12 Pitcher of the Year and consensus All-American, A.J. Morris. Morris' accomplishments speak for themselves: a Dick Howser Trophy semifinalist, a College Baseball Foundation Pitcher of the Year finalist and a Golden Spikes Award finalist. The Humble, Texas, product finished the season with 14 wins, which ranked second in the nation, and a 2.09 ERA, which ranked sixth. The junior also set four single-season school records, including victories and strikeouts (100).

But K-State will also miss the solid, grind-it-out starts it received from seniors Lance Hoge and Todd Vogel. Despite the fact that Hoge and Vogel's Big 12 starts averaged 4.5 innings and 4.0 innings, respectively, the two veterans were able to control the first half of the game and hand it over to the bullpen.

"I'm not sure we have an A.J. Morris. I can't say anyone is ever going to be an A.J. Morris," said Hill. "That was an incredible year and I'm not sure if anyone can duplicate that here at Kansas State. But what I do like is the depth. Our depth could be better as far as being able to go to the bullpen more to guys that are comfortable."

The depth that Hill speaks about is prevalent when you look at game appearances returning for Kansas State. The Wildcats return seven pitchers with at least 10 appearances from the previous season, the second most in Brad Hill's seven years in Manhattan.

At the top of that list is junior left-hander Thomas Rooke. Rooke set the single-season record for relief appearances in 2009 with 31, but that is likely to change as Rooke will be relied upon to be a weekend starter for the first time in his career.

"It's time for him to step into that role and be a leader," Hill said. "He's been with us for two years and we look for him to be the experienced guy that should be able to go out there and know what we're going to get for five or six innings."

Rooke has shown signs in the past that would lead his coaches and teammates to believe that he could be an effective starter. In a game at Texas Tech during his freshman season in 2008, Rooke came on in relief in the second inning of a 4-4 game. All he did was pitch 7.1 scoreless frames, allowing three hits and striking out five batters in 101 pitches. As a starter for the Texas Collegiate League's McKinney Marshals last summer, Rooke went 3-0 with a 2.31 ERA in seven starts.

Justin Lindsey, who redshirted as a sophomore in 2009, is back and looks to be a prime candidate for a weekend spot. This summer, the Chandler, Ariz., native was named the No. 4 prospect in the Jayhawk League by Baseball America, helping his El Dorado Broncos win the Jayhawk League, National Baseball Congress (NBC) Midwest Regional and the NBC World Series after earning a 5-1 record and a 2.45 ERA.

Ryan Daniel, who was mainly used as a mid-week starter in 2009, will be called on to be part of the weekend rotation to open the season. The right-hander gave the Cats a chance early in the season in a start at No. 11 San Diego when he did not allow an earned run in 5.1 innings. He also earned a win at in-state rival Wichita State.

"You know what you're going to get from him," Hill said of Daniel. "He's experienced and he's tough. He's going to pitch through some situations, get us through the fifth inning and then turn it over to the bullpen."

The bullpen might be more vital to the pitching staff's success compared to previous years due to the lack of experienced starters. But, most relievers that look to be a major factor in 2010 have proven success against Big 12 competition.

A trio of sophomores – James Allen, Evan Marshall and Matt Applegate – combined for a 6-5 record and six saves in 76 appearances last season and will be used heavily in many different situations in 2010.

Allen recorded five saves, including one against No. 4 Arizona State and two at Nebraska, but also showed that he could be extended for multiple innings as he pitched two or more innings on nine occasions. The St. Charles, Mo., product will be given more of a closer responsibility as a sophomore.

Marshall was the top stopper on the team last season, usually bridging the gap between a starter or middle reliever to Allen. The Sunnyvale, Calif., product was especially efficient when it came to limiting inherited runners (14-of-38 scored) and first batters faced (22-of-28 retired). Marshall's role could change, however, in 2010.

"Evan probably has the best pure stuff on our team, thus his role is kind of what he wants it to be," commented Hill. "If he can learn to pitch under control and learns how to pitch through tough situations, he could be a Friday-night type of guy. His nemesis right now is his maturity level, which all young guys have. A.J. was such a great example last year because he was a guy that had great stuff and really figured out how to pitch when it got tough."

Applegate, who was primarily a middle reliever in 2009, could also figure into the starting rotation in some capacity, despite only pitching 27.2 innings in 24 appearances last season.

"Applegate and Marshall are in between," said Hill. "Those two guys have the physical capacity to do that, now they just need the mental capacity to do that."

Kansas State also returns sophomore right-hander Kayvon Bahramzadeh, who showed promise but missed half the season due to an injury; and Kyle Hunter, a sophomore left-hander who seemed to really come along towards the end of his freshman year.

The Wildcats brought in eight freshmen pitchers to help bolster the bullpen and possibly start mid-week games. Of those eight, Hill said a trio of right-handers in Tyler Sturges, Tyler Giannonatti and Jake Doller could see some innings immediately.

"Sturges has an opportunity to be the go-between guy before James Allen closes. He can also be a guy that can close when James needs a break. He shows great velocity and he changed his arm angle a little bit. The key to him is that he has that breaking pitch that he can throw for a strike pretty consistently.

"We also really like Tyler Giannonatti. He has shown very good maturity and composure for a freshman. You couldn't tell if he had given up five runs or no runs. We'll see if that if that continues in the spring when it counts differently. Those two guys did a really nice job this fall.

"I think the darkhorse guy would be Jake Doller, who has real good stuff. He has a very good arm, great movement on the fastball. He could slide in there and be a key guy for us."

CATCHERS

The Wildcats must replace three-year starter Rob Vaughn behind the plate, but return Daniel Delasega, who is in his fifth year in the program. The Pittsburg, Kan., native has started 41 career games in three years of competition, including a career-high 16 in 2009. He had a breakout season at the plate as a junior, hitting .321, but Hill is more concerned about his work behind the plate.

"He can't worry about anything other than leading by example and being vocal," said Hill. "He needs to have the confidence that, 'I'm the guy. If I go 0-for-4, who cares. I need to handle the pitching staff, limit the running game and make sure everyone else is understanding how we need to be doing things.'"

K-State will need to break in a backup catcher and will look to two freshmen – Chase Graskewicz and Blair DeBord – to do so. Graskewicz is a three-time all-state honoree from Wisconsin, while DeBord earned Louisville Slugger High School All-American honors as a senior at Manhattan High School.

"We're excited for the future of Blair DeBord and Chase Graskewicz," said Hill. "We really thought Blair swung the bat well and Chase caught really well. Chase is probably the better thrower, but Blair is ahead offensively. One of those guys is going to have to back up because Daniel he is not going to catch 56 games. Someone is going to have to jump into that backup role and be able to show leadership as a freshman."

INFIELD

The 2010 K-State infield will not see a regular starter return to their same position from a year ago. The right side of the infield will consist of junior-college transfer David Allday at first base and a mix between sophomore Jake Brown and freshman Tanner Witt at second.

Brown earned four starts at second base early last season due to an injury that forced Carter Jurica to move from second to shortstop. Although he only hit .174, Brown was stellar in the field as he was perfect on all 25 fielding chances.

Witt was one of the top recruits out of Illinois last year as he earned numerous top-five rankings from Prep Baseball Report. The Hawthorn Woods, Ill., native was actually slated to backup the outfield during the fall, but was forced to move to second base.

Allday came to K-State following an ultra-successful stint at Texarkana College. The Texarkana, Texas, native hit .438 as sophomore, earning second team all-America honors, while being named the Player of the Year in the Region XIV's East Zone as a sophomore.

One would think that the translation from being the MVP of a junior-college conference to Division I could be smooth, but that wasn't the case for Allday at first.

"Early, there wasn't much translation, but it took time to understand the Division I game a little bit and what it takes to be good at this level. He came on the last two weeks of fall and was probably one of our better hitters. We need him to be. After losing Jason King, he needs to step up and be able to fill that void in the middle of the order for us. Potentially, he showed that he could do that. He needs to continue to work hard and understand what it takes to be successful at this level," said Hill.

Two cornerstones of the program – Jurica and King – were originally thought to make a perfect tandem on the left side of the infield, but an injury to King over the summer changed those plans. King, the starting third baseman from a year ago who hit in the No. 5 spot in the lineup, will likely be out for the season.

Enter the second fifth-year senior on the Wildcat roster – Adam Muenster. Muenster played outfield as a freshman and sophomore and moved to infield last season, but was a staple as the leadoff man and designated hitter in 2009. Muenster, who prepped at second base as a junior, will face a new challenge in third base.

"I thought Adam was our best choice at third base," Hill said. "He is very athletic. Now it's a new challenge for him to play third base. It's something he did last summer. It appears he's motivated to be a good third baseman, which I think is exciting for us."

Muenster is also destructive to opposing teams on the base paths as he has 52 career stolen bases, which is nine away from the school record.

Jurica is the top returning hitter from a season ago in which he hit .353. For his efforts, Jurica was a Second Team All-Big 12 honoree. He tied for seventh in school history in single-season hits (84) and runs scored (61), while he was one fielding assist shy of tying the single-season record.

Matt Giller returns for his sophomore season after displaying some power last season in limited action. The Manhattan product went 6-for-15 with a homer and six RBI. Giller could be in the mix at designated hitter, while he will back up at first base.

The Cats also brought in freshman middle infielder Brad Clement, who was named to the ESPN Rise All-Northeast Ohio team as a shortstop.

OUTFIELD

The outfield is another area in which the Wildcats took heavy losses from last season. Of the three starters last year, only Nick Martini returns. Center fielder Dane Yelovich, who was quick and efficient in the field, and right fielder Jordan Cruz, who provided power to the bottom third of the lineup, graduated, leaving Hill to create a new mix.

Martini, who started 61 of last year's 62 games in left field, will move to center and become the leader of the group. As one of the top freshmen in the Big 12 last season, Martini finished third on the team in hitting at .336 and fourth in stolen bases with 19. He also established new school freshman records for hits (54) and runs scored (78). A native of Prairie Ridge, Ill., Martini was named a Louisville Slugger Freshman All-American and an Honorable Mention All-Big 12 selection.

Martini will be flanked in left field by redshirt freshman Nick Cocking. Cocking, a Kansas product, was named all-state as a sophomore and senior. However, Cocking will have to rebound from an injury that set him back during the fall.

"Cocking had a great start to the fall, but unfortunately broke his thumb. If he rebounds from that and gets back to the form that he had at the beginning of the fall, then there's no question he won the left-field job," said Hill.

Much like Yelovich two years ago, the Wildcats will rely on a walk-on junior-college transfer in the outfield as Kent Urban will begin the season in right field. Urban, who came to K-State from Barton County CC, was an All-Jayhawk Conference honorable mention honoree as a sophomore after hitting .344. But outside his numbers, he has impressed the Wildcat coaching staff by his work ethic.

"He was our best hustler in the fall. His maturity level is very high for a junior-college guy coming in. He understands what his strengths and limitations are, but I wouldn't bet against him to be out there a lot this spring and be one of our key players."

Backing up the trio will be freshman Ryan Moore, who had a solid career as a prep in Chandler, Ariz. Moore held a career .379 average and was named all-state as a senior, but he is still a work in progress.

HEAD COACH
Seventh Season
Emporia State '85

Hard work and determination has fueled the Kansas State baseball program since Brad Hill was introduced as the head coach during the summer of 2003. After a steady climb the first five season of his tenure, Hill's efforts paid off last season when he guided the Wildcats to a historic season.

Through six years as the K-State skipper, Hill has guided the Wildcats from the depths of the league to the program's best record in school history and the first NCAA Regional appearance in 2009. In fact, K-State baseball is the only program among all Big 12 football, men's and women's basketball, volleyball and baseball programs to improve its conference winning percentage each of the last six years. Hill is also sixth in the nation among active coaches with a career winning percentage of .720.

The 2009 season proved to be the most storied in the program's 109-year history. Predicted to finish ninth in the Big 12 Baseball Preseason Poll, Hill guided K-State to a school-record 43-win season – including a program-best 14 conference victories to finish fourth in the Big 12 regular season standings, the school's best finish since placing second in the Big Eight in 1990. The Cats earned their first Top 10 ranking during the season and finished the 2009 campaign in the national polls for the first time in school history when Baseball America ranked K-State No. 19 in its final poll.

Hill, who garnered 2009 Big 12 Coach of the Year and American Baseball Coaches Association (ABCA) Midwest Region Coach of the Year honors, directed K-State to its first ever NCAA Regional appearance when the Cats earned an at-large berth as the No. 2 seed in the Houston (Rice) Regional. The Cats didn't stop there as they tallied a pair of victories in the regional, including one against No. 1 seed and home team Rice, to advance to the regional final.

Along the way, the 2009 Wildcats set numerous school marks, including season wins (43), Big 12 victories (14), Big 12 finish (fourth), hits (675), stolen bases (149) and strikeouts (453).

Hill also tutored Consensus All-American and Big 12 Pitcher of the Year A.J. Morris, two freshman all-Americans in James Allen and Nick Martini and a total of seven All-Big 12 performers. Four Wildcats also earned First Team Academic All-Big 12 honors last season, while Jason King and Thomas Rooke were named Academic All-District.

Following the conclusion of the 2009 season, five Wildcats were selected in the Major League Baseball Draft, improving Hill's total to 18 since he took over the program in 2004.

Not only has Kansas State baseball excelled on the field, but Hill has put an emphasis on his players' performance in the classroom. Under Hill, the Cats have had 30 Academic All-Big 12 selections as well as four Academic All-District honors, including Brett Scott, who was a two-time Academic All-American in 2007 and 2008. In addition, K-State's Academic Progress Rate (APR) has steadily improved, now reflecting an outstanding four-year average of 935.

In just his first year, Hill jumped out of the gate and led the Wildcats to a 19-6 record in his first 25 games, including wins over perennial national powers Ohio State and Alabama and 2003 College World Series participant Missouri State (formerly Southwest Missouri State). K-State also garnered its first-ever national ranking at No. 30 during that span, which included an 11-game winning streak.

Then, in 2005, the Wildcats took the next step as they won 30 games in a season for just the 10th time ever, doubled their conference wins from the previous season, swept a season series from in-state rival Wichita State for the first time in 50 years and knocked off a No. 1-ranked team for the first time in school history, eventual national champion Texas.

In 2006, the Wildcats won a school-record 16 straight games and also ended the season on a five-game winning streak, wrapping up the season with a sweep of No. 22 Baylor at Tointon Stadium. Statistically, K-State finished the season in the top half of the league in both hitting (.314) and ERA (3.94). The 3.94 team ERA was the lowest since the 1975 season and the best since the addition of aluminum bats in college baseball.

The 2007 campaign saw K-State finish with a 34-24 overall record, one win shy of tying the single-season mark, while the Wildcats advanced to postseason play for the first time since 2002. The Cats won 30 games for the third-straight season and also collected 10 wins in league play, the most since winning 13 in 2002. He also guided current Wildcat closer Daniel Edwards to third-team all-American honors, just the ninth Wildcat to earn All-American honors of any kind and the first since Kasey Weisaar in 1999.

Brad Hill was named the 2009 Big 12 Coach of the Year after leading the Wildcats to the program's first NCAA Regional.

The 2008 Wildcats, fielding a roster of 16 juniors and seniors, entered the season looking to become the first team in school history to reach the NCAA Tournament. K-State dropped early season contests, but started to catch a groove the second half of the season as they won two-of-three against No. 22 Oklahoma State, topped No. 11 UC-Irvine in a dramatic 11-inning affair, defeated No. 25 Texas, won at No. 8 Wichita State, and edged one of the top teams in 2008, No. 3 Arizona State, in its final non-conference game of the season.

In conference play, the Wildcats finished the 2008 season with 11 wins to tie for sixth, the most wins and the best finish since 2002. Down the stretch, K-State won four of its final six conference games, including a sweep of in-state rival Kansas. The end of the season is all K-State needed for a boost in the conference tournament. Under the tutelage of Hill, the Cats defeated No. 6 Oklahoma State and Baylor to advance to the school's first Big 12 Title Game. Although K-State was defeated by No. 24 Texas, everyone involved with the program can see just how far the Wildcat baseball program had come in such a short time.

After an ultra-successful nine-year stint as the head coach at Central Missouri State (now the University of Central Missouri) in Warrensburg, Mo., Brad Hill took over a Kansas State program in 2004 that had just one winning season in the last six years.

Hill came to Kansas State after guiding the Mules to an impressive 418-91 (.821) overall record during his tenure. A seven-time Central Region Coach of the Year, he led UCM to the NCAA Tournament each of his nine seasons, including seven trips to the College World Series.

Hill capped his career at Central Missouri by helping the Mules win its second national championship in baseball and first since 1994. For his efforts, he was named the 2003 NCAA Division II National Coach of the Year and College Coach of the Year by the Midwest Professional Baseball Scouts Association. It marked the second time in three seasons that Hill coached the Mules to the championship game.

The national championship in 2003 came on the heels of back-to-back record-breaking years by Central Missouri in 2001 and 2002. The Mules posted a then school-record 53 wins in 2001 en route to advancing to their first championship game under Hill where they lost to St. Mary's of Texas by a score of 11-3. A year later in 2002, he broke the school record for wins yet again by posting 54 en route to a third place finish at the College World Series. The Mules' winning percentage of .838 (290-56) over the past six seasons ranks among the best in the nation.

Hill's .821 winning percentage ranks second in CMSU baseball history, a mere two points behind current Arkansas head coach Dave Van Horn, who went 51-11 in his one season as coach in 1994. With 481 wins, Hill is the all-time winningest coach in school history with over 200 more victories than the coach in second place (248, Bob Tompkins, 1965-80).

Hill has a career head coaching record of 611-237-3 in 15 years, which includes his first five seasons in Manhattan and nine years at Central Missouri State. His teams have won 40 or more games eight times and 50-plus games on four occasions.

Under Hill's guidance, a number of Central Missouri players earned national acclaim. He has seen 22 of his players earn All-America distinction as a first, second or third team selection, including 10 first-team honorees. Hill coached at least two All-Americans in eight of his nine seasons at Central, including four each in 2001 and 2002. He has coached one National Player of the Year in 2001 recipient, Chris Umphres, and back-to-back national defensive players of the year (Chris Curry in 2000 and Umphres in 2001). Hill has also helped five individuals earn Central Region Player and Pitcher of the Year accolades, including the last three Players of the Year. His influence extends off the field as well, as four players have earned Verizon/CoSIDA Academic All-American honors.

The Mules dominated the Mid-American Athletic Association (MIAA) during Hill's tenure, winning eight conference titles and posting a 198-17 (.921) league mark. The seven-time conference Coach of the Year has coached six league most valuable players, two freshman of the year and one pitcher of the year. In all, 43 players have earned first team All-MIAA honors under Hill.

In each of his last six seasons, Central Missouri led the MIAA in batting average, earned run average and fielding percentage. In 2003, the Mules not only led the league in all three categories, but also ranked in the top 10 nationally in the NCAA. CMSU ranked second in Division II in batting average (.363), fourth in scoring (9.7 runs/game), seventh in ERA (3.14) and 10th in fielding percentage (.968).

Before coming to Central Missouri in 1995, Hill was an assistant coach at the University of Kansas for four seasons under his college coach, Dave Bingham. As the Jayhawks' hitting coach and recruiting coordinator from 1991-94, he helped Kansas to a 144-92 overall record and a pair of NCAA Tournament appearances, including the school's first and only trip to the College World Series in 1993. The 1993 team broke school records for most hits, doubles, triples, home runs and stolen bases in a single-season. Of note, the Jayhawks posted a 10-7 record against the Wildcats during Hill's tenure in Lawrence.

Prior to joining the Kansas coaching staff, Hill was the head coach at Hutchinson Community College in Hutchinson, Kan., for three seasons from 1988-90, compiling an 83-50 overall record. His 1989 squad posted a school-record 34 wins, while in 1990 the Dragons registered the highest winning percentage in school history with a 32-9 mark.

Hill graduated from Emporia State in 1985 with a Bachelor of Science degree in health and physical education. He was a four-time NAIA All-America selection for legendary head coach Dave Bingham and the Hornets from 1981-84. Hill capped off his stellar four-year career by helping ESU to the 1984 NAIA College World Series. For his efforts, he was named a second team All-American and the ESU Student-Athlete of the Year. A 1993 inductee into the ESU Athletic Hall of Honor, Hill still owns a majority of the Hornets' career offensive marks, including games played (244), at-bats (809), hits (302), runs scored (241), RBIs (264), doubles (71) and home runs (47).

Following his collegiate playing career, Hill spent four seasons in the Texas Rangers' minor league system before entering the coaching profession.

A native of Galva, Kan., Hill is a 1980 graduate of Canton-Galva High School where he was a three-sport athlete.

Hill and his wife, Crystal, have three children: sons Skylar Southards (26) and Harrison (16) and daughter Shelby Lynne (15).

PITCHING COACH
Seventh Season
St. Francis '93

Sean McCann, in his seventh season at Kansas State as the pitching coach and recruiting coordinator, has transformed the Wildcat pitching staff into one of the best in the Big 12 Conference and school history during his time in Manhattan. Heading into his 16th season as a collegiate coach, McCann brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to the Kansas State pitching staff and has sent numerous players to the professional ranks, as 28 former pitchers have gone on to sign pro contracts.

In just six seasons at K-State, nine Wildcat pitchers have been taken in the Major League Amateur Draft, including two starters off the 2009 squad. Seven pitchers have earned conference pitcher of the week honors, including one national award, and three others have earned All-America status, most recently A.J. Morris, who was a Consensus First Team All-American in 2009.

The Kansas State pitching corps has flourished under the tutelage of McCann, and one has to look no further than the numbers the K-State hurlers have put up the past five seasons. The squad has posted the school's top five team ERAs in the past five seasons, including a 4.52 team ERA in 2009, which ranked third in school history. The 2009 staff also broke a 12-year school record for strikeouts with 453, 25 more than the previous school record of 428 in 1997. McCann also led the K-State hurlers to top-10 marks in fewest walks per nine innings (second; 2.8), lowest opponent batting average (tied for fifth; .282) and fewest hits allowed per nine innings (tied for sixth; 9.9).

K-State's team ERA of 4.52 under McCann was fourth in the Big 12, which marked the best placing since the inception of the Big 12. The 2006 squad finished the season fifth, but since 1997, only two squads finished higher than seventh in ERA. K-State also ranked first in the conference in fewest number of walks, tied for first in complete games, third in runs allowed and fourth in earned runs allowed. And in the national statistics, McCann's hurlers were 14th in the country in walks allowed per nine innings.

Much of the pitching staff's success fell on A.J. Morris who, under McCann's tutelage, went from a 4-4 record and a 6.04 ERA in 2008 to the best single-season output by any Wildcat in school history. Morris, who was a Consensus All-American and the first Big 12 Pitcher of the Year in school history, set the single-season school record in four categories, including victories (14), innings pitched (116.1), strikeouts (100) and pitching decisions (15). His 14 victories were tied for the third most in Big 12 history, while he also recorded the lowest ERA by a Wildcat in 33 years at 2.09.

Morris was also a finalist for the College Baseball Foundation Pitcher of the Year and Golden Spikes Awards under McCann's watch. He also tied for first in the Big 12 in complete games, finished second in innings pitched, third in games started, and fifth in strikeouts and opponent batting average. And, on a national level, McCann directed Morris to the second-most victories and the sixth-lowest ERA in the NCAA.

Morris wasn't the only McCann protégé making headlines in 2009 as Thomas Rooke was named to the NCBWA Stopper of the Year watch list, while James Allen earned Louisville Slugger Freshman All-American honors.

With departing seniors Brad Hutt and Daniel Edwards leading the staff, the 2008 Wildcats held a team ERA of 5.12, which was fourth in school history at the time. The 2008 squad also recorded the third-lowest walks per nine innings (3.1) and tied for the 10th fewest hits per nine innings (10.3). He coached Hutt (second team) and Edwards (honorable mention) to All-Big 12 honors, while each left K-State holding numerous school records. Hutt is tops on the school's career list for innings pitched (326.1), pitching decisions (38) and tied for first in wins (25). Edwards broke the school's career record for saves (26), appearances (86) and relief appearances (86), as well as the single-season saves record with 12 in 2008.

In 2007, K-State pitchers registered a 4.68 team ERA – good for third in school history – while they also recorded its second-lowest opponent batting average of .270, and also gave up the second fewest hits per nine innings (9.3) in school history. Closer Daniel Edwards had an outstanding junior season, tying the school record for saves with 11 and was named a third-team All-American and also earned ABCA All-Region honors. Friday night starter Brad Hutt tied the school record for wins in a season with nine, including an eight-inning outing in K-State's win over Nebraska in the Big 12 Championship. For his efforts, Hutt was named to the all-tournament team, as well as being named honorable mention All-Big 12.

McCann helped bring along freshman Ben Hornbeck in 2006, who became K-State's second-ever Freshman All-American after Collegiate Baseball honored the lefthander after a solid rookie campaign.

In 2005, McCann spearheaded a Wildcat staff that garnered the then-lowest team ERA (4.22) since the move to aluminum bats in college baseball back in 1976. Also, the Wildcats boasted two seven-game winners in Chase Mitchell and Adam Cowart for the first time since 1985.

In his first season in Manhattan, McCann led a pitching staff that compiled a team ERA just above 5.00, the lowest ERA for a Wildcat team in over 15 years. K-State also had two pitchers drafted in the June MLB Amateur Draft in Carlos Torres and Jared Brite. In all, McCann has coached 28 pitchers who have gone on to play in the professional ranks, including current San Diego Padre ace Brian Lawrence and Torres, who made his Major League debut in 2009 with the Chicago White Sox.

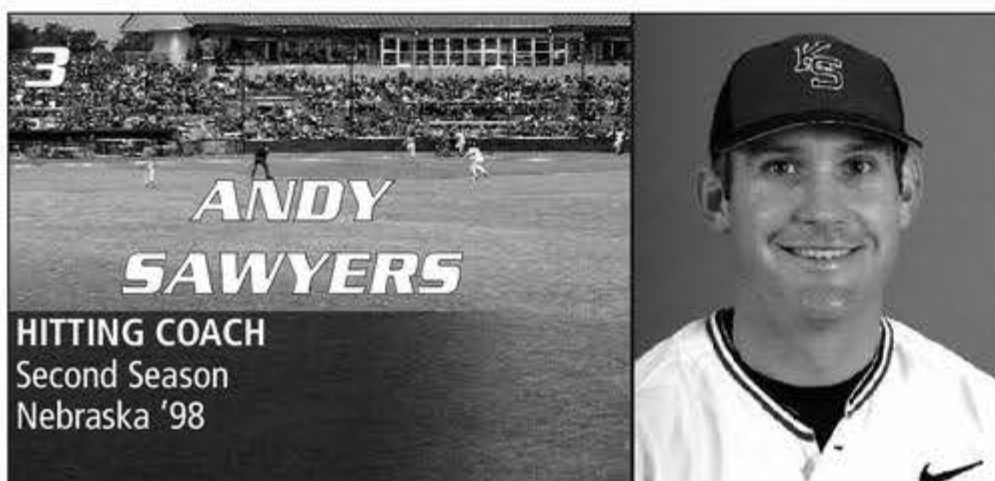

McCann spent the 2003 season as the pitching coach and recruiting coordinator at Big 12 Conference rival Missouri. The Tigers posted a 36-22 overall record in 2003, including a 15-11 mark in league play, and advanced to NCAA Regional play for the first time in seven years. McCann's pitchers were a major reason for Missouri's rise to the top of the Big 12 in 2003, as the staff ranked second in walks per nine innings (2.81) and third in strikeouts per nine innings (7.58), while registering four shutouts. Overall, the pitching staff ranked among the conference's top teams in a number of categories, including first in walks (158), second in shutouts, third in hits allowed (565), fifth in strikeouts (426) and opponent batting average (.280) and sixth in earned run average (5.07). In his brief stint, McCann helped shave over two earned runs per game off the team's total from 2002 from 7.09 to 5.07 and lowered the opponent batting average from .324 to .280, as the Tigers posted a 12-game improvement, including a six-game jump in Big 12 games.

Three Tiger pitchers earned All-Big 12 honors under McCann's guidance, including second team all-conference selection Justin James. James, along with fellow starter Derek Roper, were both selected in the 2003 Major League Baseball Draft, in which James became Missouri's highest draft pick since 1988 when he was selected with 140th overall pick in the fifth round by the Toronto Blue Jays. Tiger hurler Andy Shipman also signed with the Boston Red Sox last summer.

McCann came to Missouri following a one-year stint as the head coach at Bossier Parish Community College in Bossier City, La. Prior to Bossier Parish, he spent three years as the top assistant to head coach John Cohen at Northwestern State in Natchitoches, La. From 1998-2000, McCann guided a Demon pitching staff that recorded the nation's fifth-best team ERA in 1998 and a Southland Conference Championship. McCann coached Brandon Emanuel, who as a second-round selection in 1998 became NSU's highest draft pick ever. After finishing his playing career, Emanuel was named the pitching coach for the Cedar Rapids Kernels, a Single A affiliate of the Los Angeles Angels, prior to the 2008 season. Another of McCann's protégés is San Diego's Lawrence, who was the 1998 Southland Conference Pitcher of the Year. As NSU's recruiting coordinator, he was responsible for signing 10 eventual all-Southland performers, including two SLC Newcomers of the Year. He also lured a 21-player class in 2000 that resulted in the Demons winning back-to-back Southland Conference titles in 2001 and 2002.

A member of Brad Hill's original staff at Central Missouri State (now University of Central Missouri) from 1995-97, McCann coached numerous Mule pitchers who signed professional contracts, including Josh Reynolds, who was UCM's highest-ever draft selection when he went in the third round of the 2000 draft. He also mentored three first team All-Americans and seven all-conference pitchers. As recruiting coordinator, he signed five All-Americans and 13 eventual all-conference performers, leading to three straight MIAA Conference titles and two trips to the College World Series. In the first and last seasons of that stretch, the Mules finished the season among the nation's top-five Division II programs.

McCann earned a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Saint Francis in Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1993. The Indiana native also earned a master's degree in education from Central Missouri State in 1996.

An 11-year coaching veteran with ties to the Big 12, Andy Sawyer is entering his second season as the Wildcats' hitting coach after being appointed by head coach Brad Hill on June 26, 2008. Sawyer also works with the team's catchers while assisting Sean McCann with recruiting efforts.

In just one season in Manhattan, Sawyer was able to guide the Wildcat hitters to one of their better seasons in school history. The Cats finished the season as the top-hitting squad in the Big 12 with a .318 average, which was the third-best in school history and the highest average since the 1997 squad hit .326. The Wildcats were able to lead the league in hitting as six of their nine regular starters hit .300 or better, while the squad produced 42 games with 10 or more hits and set the school record with 675 hits on the season.

K-State also ranked among the conference leaders in on-base percentage (second; .399), runs scored (second; 458), hits (second), RBI (second; 420), doubles (third; 123); and fewest strikeouts (fourth; 393).

The Cats also improved their power numbers under Sawyer in 2009 as K-State hit 58 home runs, the third most in school history and the most since 1997. Kansas State also led the conference with 22 triples, while the Wildcats finished 20th in the nation in that category.

The K-State offense was also potent without the bat as Sawyer's aggressive coaching style led the Wildcats to a school-record 149 stolen bases, just two steals away from tying the Big 12 record. The 149 steals were tops in the Big 12 and second nationally.

Three Wildcats finished in the top-20 of the conference in hitting in Justin Bloxom (fourth; .361), Carter Jurica (tied for eighth; .353) and Nick Martini (18th; .336). Six Wildcats earned postseason All-Big 12 honors as Jurica was named to the second team, while Bloxom, Martini, Drew Biery, Jordan Cruz and Jason King earned honorable mention accolades. Sawyer also guided Martini to Louisville Slugger Freshman All-American honors.

Sawyer came to K-State with impressive credentials after working on Big 12 Conference championship staffs at Nebraska and Texas A&M.

Sawyer joined the coaching staff at Texas A&M for the 2008 season. While in College Station, Sawyer handled the outfielders and assisted hitting coach Jeremy Tolbot, helping the Aggies win a Big 12 regular-season championship and earn a berth into the school's second-straight NCAA Super Regional. He helped tutor junior shortstop Jose Duran to both Big 12 Newcomer and Player of the Year Awards, as well as five other Aggies who were named All-Big 12 in 2008.

Prior to his appointment at Texas A&M, Sawyer was an assistant coach and recruiting coordinator at Nebraska for the 2003-07 seasons, helping the Huskers earn four trips to the NCAA Tournament, including a showing at the 2005 College World Series. Sawyer, who lettered two years at Nebraska, worked with 13 Huskers who were selected in the Major League Draft, including two-time Big 12 Player of the Year Alex Gordon, who, in 2005, won five national player-of-the-year awards before being taken as the second overall pick by the Kansas City Royals.

"He knows what he's talking about when it comes to hitting. He's one of the smartest coaches I have had the pleasure of playing for. K-State is making a great pickup hiring Andy Sawyer," said Gordon at the time of Sawyer's hiring.

Sawyer took on all hitting responsibilities at Nebraska beginning with the 2006 season, when the team batted .310 – its best mark in four years – and ranked in the top three of the Big 12 in home runs, stolen bases, on-base percentage and slugging percentage. He also served as the academic coordinator and worked with the catchers during his time in Lincoln. Additionally, Sawyer helped the Huskers recruit their highest-rated class in school history, as the 2004 recruiting class was ranked 16th nationally by Collegiate Baseball.

After serving as the volunteer assistant at Nebraska in 2000, Sawyer spent the 2001 and 2002 seasons as the head coach at Hutchinson Community College, compiling an 87-30 record and two postseason berths. In 2001, the Dragons went 40-16 and won the Jayhawk West Sub-Regional, while the 2002 squad set a school record with 47 wins and was ranked as high as seventh by the NJCAA.

He has been meeting with faculty, staff and students on a regular basis as well. This fall, he plans to bring the campus community together to develop a vision of what K-State will look like in 2025.

Schulz is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Before coming to K-State, he served as vice president for research and economic development at Mississippi State University.

CURRIE'S VISION FOR A MODEL INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS PROGRAM

- A world-class student-athlete experience
- Value to our University, community and state
- Integrity and transparency in relation to ethics, NCAA compliance and finance
- Championship-level athletic performances
- The best fan experience in the Big 12

John Currie, who was introduced as Kansas State's 15th Director of Athletics on May 18, has emphasized the importance of accessibility and accountability early in his tenure as K-State sets its sights on achieving the vision of having a model intercollegiate athletics program.

A highlight of Currie's early initiatives was the implementation of the "K-State Pledge" in July which includes a series of financial accountability measures and core values that will serve as the foundation of K-State's vision. Among those values are five goals: a world-class student-athlete experience; value to the University, city and state; integrity and transparency in relation to ethics, finance and NCAA compliance; championship-level athletic performances; and the best fan experience in the Big 12.

In an effort to create the best fan experience possible, Currie's staff created new ticket initiatives for football that led to the largest home-opening crowd in Bill Snyder Family Stadium history on September 5, 2009 (50,750). In his first 60 days on the job, Currie also worked to establish relationships across campus, through steps such as personally visiting with K-State deans in their respective offices. He also serves as a member of President Kirk Schulz's cabinet and has made presentations and held question and answer sessions with many other campus organizations.

Currie also immediately implemented a communications plan in an effort to regain the trust of all Wildcat fans, which included in-person stops throughout the state, regular online letters and chats and K-State's first-ever FanForum conference call, which saw more than 3,000 fans participate.

Understanding the importance of coaching continuity in building successful programs, Currie moved quickly to sign 2009 Big 12 Baseball Coach of the Year Brad Hill and women's basketball head coach Deb Patterson to contract extensions and also led the effort to complete the five-year contract for legendary returning football coach Bill Snyder.

Currie began his duties as Athletics Director on June 8 after 10 years at the University of Tennessee, most recently serving as Executive Associate Athletics Director for Athletic Director Mike Hamilton. Currie was responsible for the direct management of units that annually produced $84 million in revenue and gifts, including the department's fundraising, marketing, ticketing, media relations, public relations, internet and broadcasting offices. Currie also provided oversight for the men's basketball program and other department initiatives and helped direct numerous searches that led to the hiring of successful head coaches.

An integral member of the facility planning team for UT's $200 million master plan renovations for Neyland Stadium, Currie also directed a $36 million arena renovation and basketball practice facility construction project that was completed in the fall of 2007. He developed and implemented the revenue models to fund both projects without outside funding from the state or local government, tax dollars or University-derived support.

Currie's accomplishments at Tennessee included helping the University secure a $50 million commitment in 2006 for academic and athletic needs, a gift which represented the largest from an individual in Tennessee history. Units under his direction also negotiated an $84 million multi-media rights contract with then-Host Communications, and a $19.3 million all-sport contract with Adidas. Under his leadership, giving to Tennessee athletics more than doubled from $19.5 million in 2003 to $41.6 million in 2008.

Currie led the negotiation and implementation of new student season ticket sales for football in 2008, resulting in $900,000 of new department revenue in its first year. He also implemented new regular-season football sales strategies that helped Tennessee set a new single-game attendance record of 109,061 in 2004.

Tennessee's athletic facilities as a whole benefitted from Currie's efforts as the development office secured individual-naming recognition gifts that included $4 million for a new aquatic center, $2 million for a new softball stadium, $1.5 million for a new soccer stadium and $2 million for baseball renovations. Tennessee's track complex also was renovated, while ground was broken last summer for a new Greg Norman-designed intercollegiate golf practice complex and clubhouse.

Currie oversaw the development and execution of a comprehensive marketing plan in 2005 that led to attendance at SEC home basketball games improving 54 percent from the previous year, while student attendance increased by 197 percent.

Currie joined the Tennessee staff in 1997 as Executive Director of the Volunteer Athletic Scholarship Fund (VASF). Following a two-year stint as Assistant Athletics Director at Wake Forest, Currie returned to Knoxville in 2000 as Assistant Athletics Director for Development and served as director for the "STEP UP" campaign. As UT's first-ever capital campaign, it exceeded its goal and reached a total of $48.6 million, $4 million over the intended goal, with gifts from 870 donors. In 2002, Currie was promoted to Associate Athletics Director for Development.

He served as President of the Southeastern Conference (SEC) development officers group for 2004-05, chaired the 2007 CASE national athletic development conference and was a member of the SEC ticket policy committee. The Knoxville News Sentinel recognized Currie in December 2008 by naming him to its prestigious "Top 40 Leaders Under 40" list.

He began his professional career at Wake Forest in 1993 as a Deacon Club intern before being named Assistant Deacon Club Director in 1994, a position he held until 1997.

Highlights of Currie's stints at Wake Forest include developing student and young alumni programs, creating a new endowment and planned giving program, managing the coaches circle volunteer program and assisting in the leadership of the "Touchdown 2000" football field house and Miller Center basketball practice/academic counseling facility campaigns.

Currie earned his master's in sports management from Tennessee in 2003 and is a 1993 Wake Forest graduate. He and his wife Mary Lawrence, have three children, Jack, Virginia and Mary-Dell.

CATS ADVANCE TO FIRST-EVER NCAA REGIONAL

When people look back at the 2009 season of Kansas State Baseball, they will without a doubt say that club turned the corner and went in a different direction than any other team in the 109 year of baseball did. The 2009 Wildcats enjoyed the journey of traveling through uncharted waters in becoming the first team in school history to earn win more than 40 games and be selected for the NCAA Tournament.

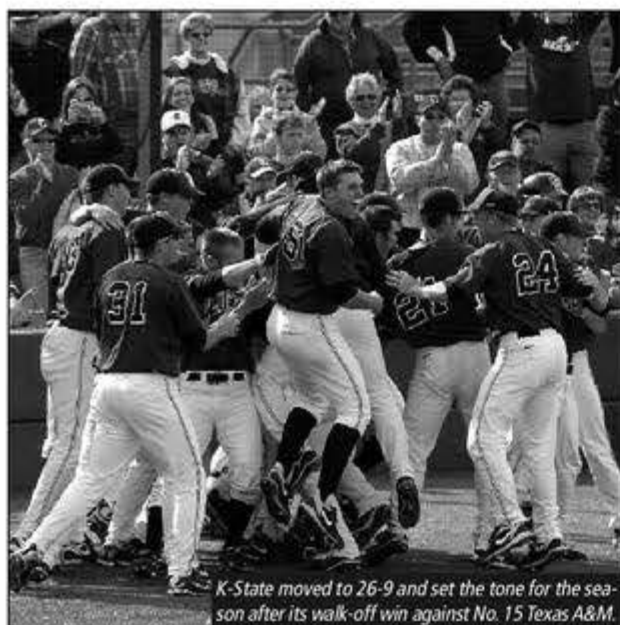

The Wildcats were not able to accomplish everything it did in 2009 without hours of hard work, extreme hustle and a never-say-die attitude. The tone was set by the six seniors - Drew Biery, Jordan Cruz, Lance Hoge, Rob Vaughn, Todd Vogel and Dane Yelovich - and was followed by the rest of the 34-man roster, which included 14 true freshmen. With that mentality set for many years to come, it is believed by those close to the program that the 2009 season won't be looked at as a pinnacle, but just beginning of a climb into one of college baseball's elite.

Kansas State relied heavily on the all-American right arm of junior A.J. Morris as its No. 1 starter, but also benefited from superb pitching from Hoge and Vogel. Those three weekend starters helped a pitching staff - which included eight newcomers - to combine for the third-lowest team ERA in school history.

Morris, who was 4-4 with an ERA greater than 6.00 the year prior as the mid-week starter, virtually came out of nowhere to tally the most successful season by a pitcher in school history. The 2009 Big 12 Pitcher of the Year shattered the school record for wins and recorded the lowest ERA since 1972. Following his stellar campaign, Morris was named a consensus all-American and was a finalist for virtually every national player and pitcher of the year award.

To counter the pitching staff's efforts, the Kansas State offense had a complete turnaround from the year prior in which it hit .261. In 2009, however, the Cats won the Big 12 hitting title for the second time in the conference's existence. K-State also led the Big 12 in triples with 22 and in stolen bases with a school-record 149.

Justin Bloxom led the way at the plate for Kansas State as he became the fourth team triple-crown winner since 2000. Bloxom was .361 with 12 home runs and 63 RBI. His .361 average was eight points better than Carter Jurica, while Bloxom edged Cruz by one homer and Jason King by two RBI.

K-State moved to 26-9 and set the tone for the season after its walk-off win against No. 15 Texas A&M.

A school-record 4,280 fans saw the Wildcats' final home game in 2009, a 4-1 victory over rival Kansas.

A.J. Morris celebrates after K-State's school-record 43rd win over No. 6 Rice in the NCAA Regional.

KANSAS STATE FINISHED THE 2009 SEASON...

GOING NATIONAL

Kansas State entered the national polls after a series win over Texas A&M in early April and shot up the polls to its first-ever Top-10 ranking on the heels of a road series win at national runner-up Texas.

Following its series win against No. 15 Texas A&M, Kansas State entered Baseball America's Top 25 for the first time in school history at No. 21. It was the highest ranking in school history, bettering the 2006 squad which was No. 24 by Collegiate Baseball on March 20 of that season.

The Cats began to climb up the rankings, culminating with the program's first-ever top-10 ranking by Baseball America on May 4.

RUNNIN' CATS

Kansas State, which led the league in stolen bases in 2008, did it again in 2009 as the Cats stole a school-record 149 bases, including 57 in the final 23 games. The 149 steals were two shy of the Big 12 record, which was 151 by the 2007 Texas A&M squad.

The Cats recorded more than double the second-place team as Texas A&M had 75. K-State also finished tied for second in the nation to Savannah State, which led the NCAA with 169.

Individually, all nine of Kansas State's everyday starters had at least five steals, while six Wildcats ranked in the top 10 in the Big 12. Dane Yelovich and Adam Muenster were tied for second in the Big 12 with 24, while Carter Jurica and Nick Martini are third and fourth with 23 and 19, respectively. Jordan Cruz was seventh at 17, while Jason King was tied for ninth at 14.

This season, Kansas State recorded four or more steals 15 times, while the Cats tallied six or more steals on five occasions. The Wildcat season-high was nine steals against both Niagara and Butler.

Of Kansas State's 149 steals, 43 came in conference play, which was also a league best. The Wildcats had more steals in Big 12 games than two other teams in the league have overall steals.

THE TRIFECTA

Kansas State made it a habit of hitting triples as K-State had 22 three-baggers in 2009, which led the Big 12 and was tied for 20th in the nation. The Cats, who had a pair of two-triple games, registered 12 of its triples against Big 12 opponents, which was tops in the league by five.

The Wildcats, who had just seven triples a year ago, had nine players that recorded at least one three-bagger, including Jason King, who paced the squad with five, the most by a Wildcat in a single season since Heath Schesser had eight in 1997.

PACKED HOUSE

Not only did Kansas State tally the most victories in school history, they also played in front of the highest average home crowd in 109 years of baseball. This season, the Cats attracted an average attendance of 1,391 in 31 home games, the most since Tointon Family Stadium renovated and rededicated in 2002. It was the first time in school history the Cats had an average home attendance greater than 1,000, while they had an average of 528 more fans than they did in 2008.

Of K-State's 31 home games, more than 1,000 fans turned out on 18 occasions, while they had an attendance of 2,000 or more five times. In the final home game of the season against Kansas on May 15, 4,280 fans saw a 4-1 victory and broke a Tointon Family Stadium record in the process. The 4,280 fans were 254 more than the previous record of 4,026 set against the Jayhawks on April 22, 2006, which preceded the 2006 spring football game.

THE ART OF HITTING .300

After hitting under .300 for the last two seasons, Kansas State jumped above the .300 mark in a big way by leading the Big 12 with a .317 batting average, the second time in school history the Cats led the Big 12 in average. The .317 average, which ranks third in school history, was also the highest since the 1997 squad hit .326. Kansas State was one of just four teams in the Big 12 to hit .300 or better this season.

The Wildcats were able to accomplish this feat by having six of its nine regular starters hit .300 or better. The six players hitting over .300 were the most with at least 150 at-bats per player since the 1997 club boasted seven. Justin Bloxom led the way with a .361 average, while Carter Jurica hit at a .353 clip.

COMPLETE 180

The statistical difference between the 2008 Wildcats and the 2009 Wildcats was like night and day. The 2008 squad struggled throughout most the season, finishing with a batting average well below .300. The Wildcats hit at a .261 clip with 103 doubles, seven triples, 36 homers and 280 RBI. Kansas State finished the season at 29-29 without a single player hitting over .300. Fast forward to 2009. The Cats hit .317 - which was tops in the Big 12 - and had six players hitting .300 or better, including Justin Bloxom, who led the team and finished fourth in the conference at .361. The Wildcats also collected 123 doubles, a league-best 22 triples, 58 home runs and 420 RBI, while they stole a school-record 149 bases.

The difference was also notable on the mound as the 2008 pitching staff combined to allow a .290 batting average to its opponents, hold a 5.02 ERA and strike out 343 batters. The 2009 edition, which included eight newcomers, combined to yield a .282 opponent batting average, while decreasing its ERA to 4.52 and increasing its strikeout total to a school-record 453.

ALL-BIG 12 TEAM

Kansas State was impressive throughout the entire 2009 season, and one has to look no further at the Big 12 statistics. The Wildcats won the Big 12 team batting title at .317 and finished fourth in the league in team ERA at 4.52. Kansas State edged Oklahoma in hitting by one point, while it was 0.02 away from second place in the league in ERA. The Cats claimed two of the top 10 hitters as Justin Bloxom was fourth at .361 and Carter Jurica was tied for eighth at .353.

In ERA, Kansas State was edged Texas A&M and Kansas by 0.02 for second, while Texas led the Big 12 all season long with a sub-3.00 ERA, finishing the year at 2.95. The Wildcats boasted its top two starting pitchers in the top 20 in individual ERA in A.J. Morris, who was second at 2.09 and senior left-hander Lance Hoge, who was 16th in the Big 12 at 4.54.

The Wildcats were also among the league's best in nine other offensive categories. The Cats led the league in stolen bases (149) and triples (22). K-State was second in on-base percentage (.399), runs scored (458), hits (675) and RBI (420). Kansas State finished the season third in doubles (123), while the Cats were fourth in slugging percentage (.478) and fewest strikeouts (393). On the mound, the Wildcats were tops in the Big 12 in walks allowed (169), while they were tied for first with six complete games. K-State completed the season third in fewest runs allowed (308), and fourth in innings pitched (547.1) and fewest earned runs allowed (274).

DOUBLE YOUR FUN

It was a rarity in 2009 for Kansas State to tally less than 10 hits as the Wildcats reached the double-digit hit total on 42 occasions in its 62 games. The Cats were able to keep that pace going in Big 12 play as they had 17 10-plus hit games in 26 tries. Last season, Kansas State had just 20 games overall with 10 or more hits. Since head coach Brad Hill took over in 2004, the most 10-plus hit games K-State had in a season was 33 in 2005.

K-State tallied a season-high 23 hits against North Dakota, the most since 2005. The Cats also tallied 16 hits against Oklahoma and 15 against Nebraska, the fifth-straight year Kansas State recorded at least 15 hits in a single conference game.

POWER CATS

The 2009 Kansas State squad proved to be one of the best home-run teams in recent school history. The Cats tallied 58 homers in 2009, which was third in school history. The 58 homers were the most since the 1997 squad hit a school-record 75.

Junior Justin Bloxom led the team with 12 home runs, including four in the final six games to claim top honors on the squad. Senior Jordan Cruz, who had just four career home runs entering his final campaign, recorded 11 homers, including a pair to fuel the Cats in an extra-inning win at No. 2 Texas.

Bloxom and Cruz combined to become the first pair of Wildcats with at least 10 homers since Steve Murphy and Joe Roundy each had 10 in 2005. However, Bloxom and Cruz were the first two Cats with more than 10 home runs since Scott Poepard and Heath Schesser each had a school-record 16 in 1997.

*The Big Eight/12 has conducted a postseason tournament every year since 1976. The asterisk indicates the tournament champion.

The Big 12 Conference has established a consistent level of national success on the field and in the classroom as it continues its 14th season in 2009-10.

Since it began play in 1996-97, the Conference can boast of 35 team crowns and over 420 individual NCAA Championships. The success continued this fall, as Oklahoma State won the NCAA men's cross country title. Five Big 12 volleyball teams competed in the regional semifinals of the NCAA Championship in the same year for the first time and the league had a squad in the national championship match for the third time. The Big 12 also had a school play for the BCS National Championship for the seventh season. A year earlier, the Big 12 added three more national titles to its ledger as Texas A&M captured crowns in men's golf as well as men's and women's outdoor track & field.

The individual honors also continued in December, as Jenny Barringer of Colorado earned The Bowerman Award, presented for the first time to the most outstanding collegiate women's track and field athlete. She beat out two other Big 12 athletes (Destinee Hooker, UT; Porscha Lucas, TAMU) as the Conference had all three finalists for the honor. In fact, four of six finalists came from the Big 12 as German Fernandez of Oklahoma State was among the last three choices on the men's side.

The Big 12 has had four Heisman Trophy winners in its 13-year history. In 2008, the Big 12 established a high-water mark, as for the first time in the 74-year history of the Heisman Trophy four of the top five vote-getters hailed from the same conference, including award-winner Sam Bradford (Oklahoma). The league followed that recognition with two of the top five finalists in 2009.

During the past six seasons a total of 14 NCAA trophies have been hoisted by Big 12 institutions, with at least one national crown won in all but one year for the Conference, including each of the past 13 seasons.

The Big 12 leads all conferences with its seven appearances in BCS title games. Seven league squads have played for the football national championship in the last 10 years with berths in 17 BCS games overall, including two each in 2007 and 2008. In the past two seasons, the Big 12 has had 16 players earn Consensus All-America accolades.

In basketball, 10 women's and nine men's teams have advanced to their respective Final Fours in the past eight seasons as the Big 12 continues its place among the elite intercollegiate athletic conferences. The six men's Final Four participants since 2002 are tied for the most of any conference. Numerous national honors have been won by basketball student-athletes during the league's history. The Big 12 had a national player of the year honoree for the third straight year when Blake Griffin (Oklahoma) was the consensus winner in 2008-09. Courtney Paris (Oklahoma) gave the conference a consensus All-America selection in women's basketball for the ninth straight season.

The Big 12 and its member institutions are committed to a competitive environment where sportsmanship and fair play take center stage. Whether on the field, in the classroom, or within the community the student-athletes, administrators, coaches and game officials of the Big 12 support the highest ideals in sportsmanship.

Big 12 student-athletes also do well in garnering national academic recognition. Sarah Pavan (Nebraska) was named Academic All-America of the Year in volleyball in 2006 and 2007 by ESPN The Magazine and College Sports Information Directors of America with a 4.0 grade-point average in Biochemistry. She also won the national academic honor presented for all sports in 2006-07 and was named recipient of the prestigious 2006-07 Honda-Broderick Award as Collegiate Woman Athlete of the Year. She is the first athlete since the Big 12 was formed to earn the accolade. In its history, the conference has over 330 academic honorees, averaging more than 25 each season.

The Big 12 can boast of other stories that combine on and off the field success. Patience Knight (Texas Tech) was the recipient of the Honda Inspiration Award in 2008, given to an outstanding female college athlete who overcomes adversity to excel in her sport. She was diagnosed with a cancerous tumor in 2007, but rebounded to win All-America honors at the 2008 NCAA Indoor Track & Field Championships.

Competitive excellence, scholarship and sportsmanship are all equal components of the Big 12 philosophy. All-Big 12 teams and Academic All-Big 12 squads are recognized for each sport at the end of their respective seasons.

At the end of each academic year, the Conference honors its top male and female student-athletes with the Big 12 Athlete of the Year and Big 12 Sportsman of the Year awards.

Institutions can also nominate student-athletes for the prestigious Dr. Prentice Gautt Postgraduate Scholarships at the end of each academic year. A total of 225 scholars have received over 1.3 million in postgraduate financial aid through the first 13 years of the program.

The Big 12 sponsors 21 sports. Men's squads include baseball, basketball, cross country, football, golf, indoor track & field, outdoor track & field, swimming & diving, tennis and wrestling. Women's teams are fielded in basketball, cross country, golf, gymnastics, indoor track & field, outdoor track & field, soccer, softball, swimming, tennis and volleyball.

The Conference is made up of 12 institutions that have shared many traditional rivalries throughout their histories. Member schools include - Baylor University, University of Colorado, Iowa State University, University of Kansas, Kansas State University, University of Missouri, University of Nebraska, University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma State University, University of Texas, Texas A&M University and Texas Tech University.

The institutions created a league that encompasses seven states, over 46 million people and television households in 18 of the top 100 markets within its geographic footprint.

The Conference conducts championships for 20 of its 21 sports. Each championship helps to determine teams and/or individuals that will represent the Conference in national postseason competition. The winner of the Big 12 football championship game earns the league's berth into the prestigious Bowl Championship Series.

In the last several years the Big 12 has increased its bowl agreements and expanded television opportunities for all sports through contracts with ABC/ESPN and FSN. Most recently, the league renewed and expanded its multi-year arrangement with ABC/ESPN, Inc. The new contract began in 2008-09.

In its first 13 years, the Conference has distributed more than $1.1 billion to its 12 member institutions.

The Big 12 staff administers to over 4,600 student-athletes in its 21 sports. The conference office is headquartered in Irving, Texas.

2010 PHILLIPS 66 BIG 12 CHAMPIONSHIP

May 26-30

AT&T Bricktown Ballpark
Oklahoma City, Okla.

The Phillips 66 Big 12 Baseball Championship returns to Oklahoma City's AT&T Bricktown Ballpark for the annual eight-team championship in 2010.

The Brick, which was opened on April 2, 1998, and seats 13,066 fans, serves as the home facility for the Class AAA Oklahoma Redhawks. The venue is hosting the 11th baseball championship in the league's 14-year tenure.

Previous championships have set almost annual attendance records while playing at three sites to date: All-Sports Stadium (1997) in Oklahoma City, AT&T Bricktown Ballpark (1998-2001, '03, '05-08), and Rangers Ballpark in Arlington (2002, '04).

Past championship winners include Kansas (2006), Nebraska (1999-2001, '05), Oklahoma (1997), Oklahoma State (2004) Texas (2002-03, 08-09), Texas A&M (2007) and Texas Tech (1998).

CHAMPIONSHIP FORMAT

The Big 12 introduced a two-division, pool play format for the championship in 2006. Each of the eight teams competing is guaranteed a minimum of three games.

Results from the league's 27-game round-robin conference schedule will determine the eight seeds for the Championship. Seeds 2, 3, 6 and 7 will compete in pool play on one side of the bracket, while seeds 1, 4, 5 and 8 will play in the other. The two teams with the best record within their bracket will advance to the Championship game, with the winner earning the Big 12's automatic berth into the NCAA Championship. Head-to-head competition will break ties within each bracket. In the event of more than two teams being tied for the top spot within a bracket, the highest seeded team will advance to Sunday's winner-take-all championship game.

CHAMPIONSHIP HISTORY

Oklahoma City and AT&T Bricktown Ballpark will host the Phillips 66 Baseball Championship through the 2011 season. The event has been contested in Oklahoma City 11 of the last 12 years (All Sports Stadium - 1997; Bricktown Ballpark - 1998-01, '03, '05-08).

In 2002, the Phillips 66 Big 12 Baseball Championship moved to the largest postseason venue with the exception of football and outdoor track & field in Big 12 history. Rangers Ballpark in Arlington, Texas, home of the American League's Texas Rangers, set a record with 150,196 tickets sold for 14 games. In the two years (2002, '04) at Rangers Ballpark, the tournament had 275,824 tickets sold for 27 games - an average of more than 10,000.

The Phillips 66 Big 12 Championship has received consistent television coverage over the years. FSN and its regional affiliates have carried each title game. Numerous other games have been available via the Big 12 web site over the last two seasons.

FIRST GAME

April 10, 1897: Kansas Agricultural College played and won its first game in Fort Riley, Kan. Head coach H.W. Wagner led the Aggies to a 4-3 win over Fort Riley. The following is an account of the first game as told by the April 14, 1897 edition of the K.A.C. Students' Herald.

The baseball team crossed bats with the Fort Riley team at Fort Riley, April 10, in the first game of the season. The game resulted in a victory for the college team, the score standing at the close of the ninth inning 4 to 3 in favor of the K.A.C. The game in detail was as follows: first inning, first half, Crooch in the box, Davis catching for Fort Riley. Noble at the bat sent a fly to third and was put out on first.

Second half Hank Wagner in the box, Doc Wagner catching for the college. Considine at the bat sent a ball to the pitcher who makes a wild throw to first and Considine scores a run. Fann sent a fly to center field and was caught out. Mearns made first on an error by third. Hayward was put out on first and Mearns on third. In the second and third innings neither side scored.

In the second half of the fourth inning Mearns scored an earned run, the score then standing Fort Riley 2, K.A.C. 0.

In the fifth inning Menke and Poston each scored a run for the college team and Davis scored for the Fort Riley team.

In the sixth inning Ashbrook went out on first; Cheadle scored on an error by first.

Green made first; Poston made first and Green made second on an error by left field. Menke sent a fly to third and was caught out. H. Wagner struck out leaving Green and Poston on bases.

Fann and Mearns both went out on fouls which Doc Wagner nailed handsomely, the inning closed with the score standing Fort Riley 3, K.A.C. 0.

In the seventh inning, Doc Wagner was put out on first. Noble went out on a foul; Dial made a base hit and scored a run, Cheadle sent a fly to the pitcher and was caught out leaving Ashbrook on base. Fort Riley made no score.

In the eighth and ninth innings neither side scored, the result was K.A.C. 4, Riley 3.

Both teams played well, both have had the same difficulties in regard to practice, Saturday's game was the first time that either nine had played together.

The college team had by far the best battery. The college team was rather weak at the bat but this will soon be remedied by practice.

FIRST HOME RUN

May 1, 1897: In the ninth inning of the game against Chapman High School, K.A.C. second basemen Whitelock stepped to the plate. According to the K.A.C. Students' Herald,

"When Whitelock stepped to the plate in the ninth inning there was a look of determination on his face and when the ball crossed the plate he met it squarely sending it into the deep right field for a home run." This was the first home run in the school's short four-game history.

The team, which included the Cubs' most famous double play combination of all-time, Tinker, Evans and Chance, was on their way back to Chicago after completing spring training in Arizona and stopped off to play the Aggies. No box score remains, but the Cubs did win, 13-0.

April 17, 1906: Arthur Furey pitched the first no-hitter in Kansas State baseball history in a 13-0 win over the College of Emporia. Three days later, Carl Mallon matched Furey's feat in the team's next outing with a no-hitter against Ottawa University.

ELDEN AUKER (1910-2006)

PITCHER (1933-42)
DETROIT TIGERS
BOSTON RED SOX
ST. LOUIS BROWNS

Taking it in stride. That expression pretty well describes Elden Auker's approach to life. He's had quite a life to handle, covering 87 years and enough significant achievements to fill many people's portfolios.

Auker played football, basketball and baseball at Kansas State in the late 1920s and early 1930s, and he was selected as an all-American in all three sports. After graduation, he had offers to play professional football and baseball. He chose baseball, and embarked on a 10-year major league career.

On his first visit to venerable Yankee Stadium in New York, the first batter he faced was none other than Babe Ruth, whom Auker struck out on four pitches. He also played with or against numerous other Hall of Famers in a career with the Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns.

Even at age 88, Auker still was competitive, as can be attested by the fact that he played golf three times a week. In a sport in which it is every participant's goal to shoot his age, Auker has made a habit of it, recording the feat 20 times in a row at one point. And his exploits have earned fans of all ages and circles, including a former President of the United States, who came to Auker and asked if he remembered him.

It's just another day in the life of Elden Auker.

Auker grew up in Norcatur, in northwest Kansas, where he was coached in football by Pete Peterson, an alum of the University of Nebraska. "He said, 'They'll get you a job if you'll go to Nebraska. I think you ought to go there,'" Auker said. "But I played in a basketball tournament in Norton against Almena, and we beat them, 10-9. (Those were the days when defense was everything.) I scored nine of the 10 points in that game. The referee in that game was Charley Corsault, the basketball and baseball coach at Kansas State.

"After the game he talked with me about going to Kansas State. He gave me quite a talk on it. He said, 'I'll get you a job. But I think you owe it to Kansas; you're a Kansas boy. If you go to Nebraska, you're not being loyal to your home state.' I was young and I thought a lot of Kansas, so I decided that was where I should go."

Among the sports he played at K-State, he liked football the best. "I just liked the physical contact, I guess," he said. He played quarterback and halfback on offense and safety on defense. "I got as far away from the action as I could on defense, but I got plenty of contact back there on punts and passes."

Despite all the success Auker had, his most vivid memories of his K-State playing days were two losses. In 1931, the Cats were 5-0 and bound for a possible berth in the Rose Bowl, the only postseason bowl game in existence at that time. They had won their first five games by a total score of 94-14, including three straight shutouts against Kansas, Oklahoma and West Virginia. But late in the contest against West Virginia, an injury to Ralph Graham, one of the other stars on that team, left the Wildcats shorthanded.

The Cats lost their next two games, and Auker takes more than his share of the blame. "The third quarter of the Iowa State game was scoreless," he said. "I dropped back to punt (that was when the goal post was on the goal line) and I faked it. The end had been cutting in fast and almost blocked a couple of punts. So when he cut in, I faked a punt and ran 102 yards for a touchdown. That put us ahead 6-0. Henry Cronkite, who was doing the place kicking, missed the point after touchdown.

"In the fourth quarter I was playing safety. The guy got behind me and they threw a pass over my head for a touchdown. I tipped the ball, but the guy still caught it and fell over the goal line. They kicked the point and beat us 7-6. The Kansas City Star came out the next day and said, 'Auker hero and goat.' That's one I remember.

"The next game was against Nebraska. We had Nebraska beat, 3-0, with 27 seconds left to play. I punted a ball, trying to kick it out of bounds down the right-hand side of the field. Nebraska put in a little guy who caught it right on the sideline. The guys thought he was out of bounds, but he wasn't, and he ran 80 yards for a touchdown and they beat us, 6-3.

Those two games I remember. I always remember those bad things. The good things are just kind of taken in stride, but those bad things, you never forget them."

Auker remembers a lot about his K-State days, even though they occurred more than 65 years ago. He recalls working his way through school cleaning a drug store for $1 a day. "In those days, they didn't pay you any money for signing," he said. "They gave athletes jobs. I got a job cleaning out the drug store every morning, sweeping it and mopping it. I did that for four years for $1 a day. And that got me through school. In those days, you could buy breakfast for 15 cents, dinner was about 35 cents. I worked in the harvest fields in the summertime and I pitched baseball and made a little money."

After graduation, he was offered a contract for $6,000 ($500 per game) by the Bears. "That was back in 1932 when times were tough," he said. "That was a lot of money."

In 1932, there was no Deion Sanders to follow and no agents to negotiate, and Auker was forced to make a choice. "I graduated on June 1 and went directly to Detroit," he recalled. "When I got there, I reported to Mr. Navin, who owned the Tigers. In our first conversation he said, 'I understand that you have an opportunity to play football this fall.' I said, 'Yes. I've been offered a contract with the Chicago Bears.'

"He said, 'We think you have the possibility of being a major-league pitcher, but before you come up here, we've got to send you to the minor leagues. We're going to have to invest money in training you and getting you ready for professional baseball.'

Auker possessed a good fastball and a good curve. But a football injury to his shoulder prevented him from throwing overhand. His first manager in the minors, Bob Coleman, convinced him to try pitching underhand, instead of sidearm. After practicing for awhile, Coleman told Auker he wanted to give him some game action so Auker was going to pitch nine innings, regardless of his performance. He pitched a shutout, winning 1-0, and never threw overhand again.

He made the majors the next year. His catcher that year with the Tigers, Ray Hayworth, still is living in North Carolina. Auker and Hayworth form the oldest living battery in baseball. Hayworth was behind the plate when Auker came to the mound in a relief role in Yankee Stadium to face Ruth. "Bucky Harris was our manager," Auker said. "He said to me, 'Elden, you go to the bullpen, and if I need you, I'll call you in.' We had a left-handed pitcher named Carl Fisher. He got into the third inning and got in trouble. So the phone rang, and they called me in from the bullpen. The hitter was Babe Ruth. I threw four pitches to him, and struck him out.

"I didn't think anything about it. All I was trying to do was get him out, and I went from there. I had to get him out before I could do anything else. I later played golf with him for a couple of years down in Florida. He was a good personal friend. He told me, 'I didn't like your style of pitching. It bothered me.'"

Auker also was friends with another Yankee Hall of Famer, Lou Gehrig. The two players often wrestled for fun in the common hallway between the two locker rooms at Fenway Park. Until one time when Auker caught Gehrig by surprise. "I grabbed him. Usually he just lifted you off the ground and you started just bearhugging," he said. "This time, he just folded up. He said, 'Don't do that.' I helped him get up and said, 'What's the matter with you?' He said, 'I've got something wrong with me. I don't have any strength. I can't hit the ball out of the infield. I don't know what's wrong with me.' He said he had begun to notice it the previous winter. He had had a lousy spring and by the time they got to Boston, he wasn't doing well at all. He played a couple of innings that day and he took himself out. Then the next day, he played a couple more innings, and took himself out. They went to Detroit, and that's when he left the team and went to the Mayo Clinic. That was the last time I saw him."

The list of former teammates — Ted Williams, Hank Greenberg, Mickey Cochrane — is a list of some of the all-time greats of the game.

In 1935, he opened the World Series against the Chicago Cubs and was interviewed by a young reporter from WHO in Des Moines, Iowa, named Ronald Reagan. Twenty-five years later, Reagan, then the governor of California asked Auker if he remembered him. "I thought he had it turned around, but he remembered interviewing me," Auker said.

Auker's athletic exploits are limited to the golf course these days, though he plays like someone much younger. His history has earned him a place in several Halls of Fame, including K-State's and the state of Kansas.

"I was the first member to be elected into the Kansas State Sports Hall of Fame," he said. "They hold a banquet whenever they have someone to go in, and Mrs. Auker and I always go. We have a great time. We don't see many old friends, because there are not many of them left, but we see some new friends that we've made."

Even the fact that he has outlived most of his contemporaries doesn't bother Auker. He just takes it all in stride.

THIS IS KANSAS STATE

IT'S A GREAT TIME TO BE A K-STATER!

In 2009, K-State welcomed a new president and a new athletic director, who will build on the successes of the past and create a bright new future. Kirk Schulz accepted the K-State presidency because he is impressed with all of the outstanding programs and successes of our faculty, staff and students and with the passion K-Staters have for their university. K-Staters connect with our new resident via his blog, Twitter and Facebook. Check out his Web site at www.k-state.edu/president.

HISTORY AND LOCATION

Founded on Feb. 16, 1863, Kansas State University is the oldest public institution of higher education in Kansas and one of the nation's first land-grant universities.

Throughout its history, K-State's mission has been rooted in the principles set forth in the Morrill Act - to provide teaching, research and service to the citizens of Kansas, the nation and the world. The university's 644-acre wooded main campus with historical limestone buildings is located in Manhattan.

K-State also has a campus in Salina, and another coming soon in Olathe, along with numerous extension fields, offices and other facilities in Kansas and Nebraska. The Salina campus offers bachelor's and associate degrees in aviation and engineering technologies. Air service in and out of Manhattan Regional Airport connects the city with major airports all over the Midwest and South. Located five miles north of campus is Tuttle Creek Reservoir, a favorite outlet of students for boating, water skiing, swimming and fishing.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

K-State is the only research university in the United States to have three national CASE/Carnegie professors of the year. All three are active teachers: Michael Wesch, 2008 national winner; Chris Sorensen, 2007 national winner; and Dean Zollman, 1996 national winner. Look for "kstate" on YouTube to see lectures by them and other great faculty.

More than 250 majors and programs are offered in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Engineering, Business Administration, Agriculture, Education, Architecture, Planning and Design, Human Ecology, Technology and Aviation and Veterinary Medicine. The Graduate School offers 67 master's degrees, 39 doctoral degrees, five educational doctorate programs and 33 graduate certificates in multiple disciplines across campus. More than $185 million is available in student financial assistance, including $11 million in scholarships. Seven out of 10 students receive financial assistance.

Even with 23,000 students, K-State is committed to individualized education whenever possible. For example, freshman English classes have no more than 22 students, introductory chemistry labs average 15 students, introductory art classes average 19 students and speech classes are limited to 23 students. Seventy percent of classes have 30 students or less and the average class size for all undergraduate classes is 23 students. Ninety percent of classes have less than 49 students.

K-STATE STUDENT UNION

STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT

Academic achievement of the institution is drawing national acclaim as well. K-State students have won more Truman scholarships, more Goldwater scholarships and more Phi Kappa Phi Fellowships than any other public university in the nation. Over the past twenty-five years, Kansas State University has ranked No. 1 in the nation among public universities in Rhodes, Truman, Marshall, Goldwater and Udall Scholars. We've earned our reputation as the "Student Scholar Capital of America."

K-State students have an outstanding record of acceptance into professional schools. Over the past four years, 70-percent of our qualified pre-med applicants were accepted into medical schools; 100-percent of our pre-optometry and 82-percent of our pre-dentistry students were accepted into their respective professional schools. Over the past five years, 98-percent of students who participated in our pre-law program were accepted into law schools.

ACADEMIC RECOGNITION

K-State is one of just 63 public universities -- that's the top 4-percent -- identified by the Carnegie Foundation as having "very high research activity." K-State is a leader on the cutting edge of research discoveries. The university has received almost $250 million in research grants. And faculty scientists and graduate students aren't the only ones conducting research. K-State undergraduates have rich opportunities to work side-by-side with some of the nation's best authorities in their fields. Many students begin undergraduate research their freshman year.

QUALITY AND AFFORDABILITY

K-State was featured as one of America's best in the Princeton Review's "The Best 368 Colleges" (2008). K-State was also ranked in the top 25 of America's best "cutting-edge schools" in You Are Here: A Guide to Over 380 Colleges and Unlimited Paths to Your Future. K-State was the only school from the Big 12 Conference to make the cut (2008).

You can even earn while you learn by taking a campus job. Last year, student workers brought home more than $15 million helping run the university.

Graduates face a promising future when they walk away from K-State with a bachelor's degree in hand. According to a report by the university's Career and Employment Services, more than 90 percent of recent bachelor's degree graduates surveyed are employed or are continuing their education through graduate school or some other program. More than half of the graduates surveyed who went to work took jobs in Kansas.

POWERCAT STRENGTH

Baseball players at Kansas State use workouts that are designed to be specific for not only baseball but also to each position - whether it be position players, starting pitchers or relief pitchers - and the individual. The players work on developing strength, power, speed, agility and flexibility, which are all things that will help them compete to the highest level each time they take the field.

"During the five years I was at Kansas State, the team has improved and I believe part of that is due to the improvement of the strength and conditioning program," said former player Brett Scott. "The continuing growth of the strength and conditioning program bodes well for the future of Kansas State baseball."

Nutritional education is a big part of the program as well. Whether a player needs to gain weight, lose weight or just to have the energy to compete at a high level, we help our players do this through proper nutrition. We also provide them with post-workout nutritional shakes and bars as well as sessions to help them develop better nutritional habits.

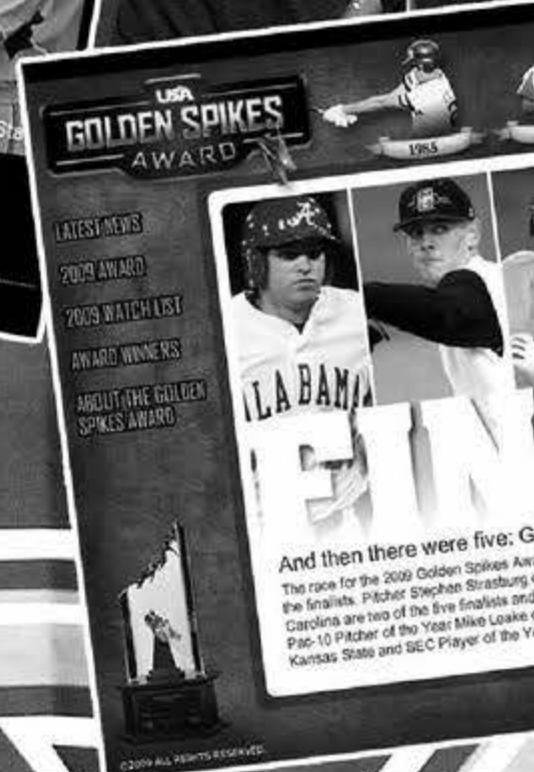

The program is year-round as players are tested several times per year to monitor their progress. Players are also scheduled in small groups during the school year so that each athlete is given individual attention for each workout. They are also each given training manuals for the summer so that they can keep up with their physical development as they are involved in summer leagues.

The program puts a big emphasis on speed development as during the past fall the average increase in the 60 time was .10. The past fall, the average increase on squats was 56 pounds and the bench press for position players was 21 pounds.

Other goals of the program include enhanced performance, injury prevention, mental toughness, development and increased confidence.

The 1,500 square-foot John A. Allen Strength Center was completed in 2006. Among the equipment features of the strength center is four Power Lift half racks for core exercises, including squat and bench lifts; two Vertimax Platforms and Plyo Press for concentration on lower-body strength, explosion and quickness; a Life Fitness cable motion pulley machine which provides motion training for pitchers and hitters in a versatile set of exercises; a full set of Ivanko dumbbells; Life Fitness cardiovascular exercise machines and a wide variety of speed and power development equipment by Speed City. The center contains a rubber sport flooring system and an office for the strength coach.

"Because of the generous contribution by John and Anna Allen, we have one of the best baseball strength training centers in the country," head strength coach Scott Bird said. "By utilizing this great facility, it is my goal that through consistent, intense and smart training, each player will have the opportunity to develop themselves physically to be the best they can be."

MEDIA EXPOSURE

The popularity of Kansas State baseball on both a regional and national stage has increased dramatically over the past several seasons. Interest in the program reached an all-time high in 2009 when the Wildcats made their run towards the program's first-ever postseason appearance. Many high-profile media outlets - such as Baseball America, Rivals.com and ESPN - featured Kansas State baseball on their websites, in their publications and on television.

Furthermore, Kansas State has been on TV 16 times over the past five seasons and that number could increase as the Wildcats are regularly shown on Fox Sports Kansas City to a regional audience and could see more TV time on opponents' television packages. The Wildcats have also played nationally on CBS College Sports and Fox Sports Net each of the last five seasons.

Newspapers from Manhattan, Kansas City, Topeka and Wichita regularly cover Kansas State baseball, writing game recaps and feature stories on the team and individual players.

Kansas State players are still making headlines after leaving the program as many have been highlighted during their time in the professional ranks. Baseball America as well as MLB.com have written articles on former K-State players during their professional careers.

The Kansas State Athletics Department also video streams various games throughout the season on the office athletics website, k-statesports.com.

Kansas State will have over 40 games broadcast over the radio in Manhattan on SportsRadio 1350 KMAN, or online at www.1350kman.com or www.k-statesports.com. In addition, the K-State Sports Network will broadcast five regular season games and all postseason contests across the five-station network.

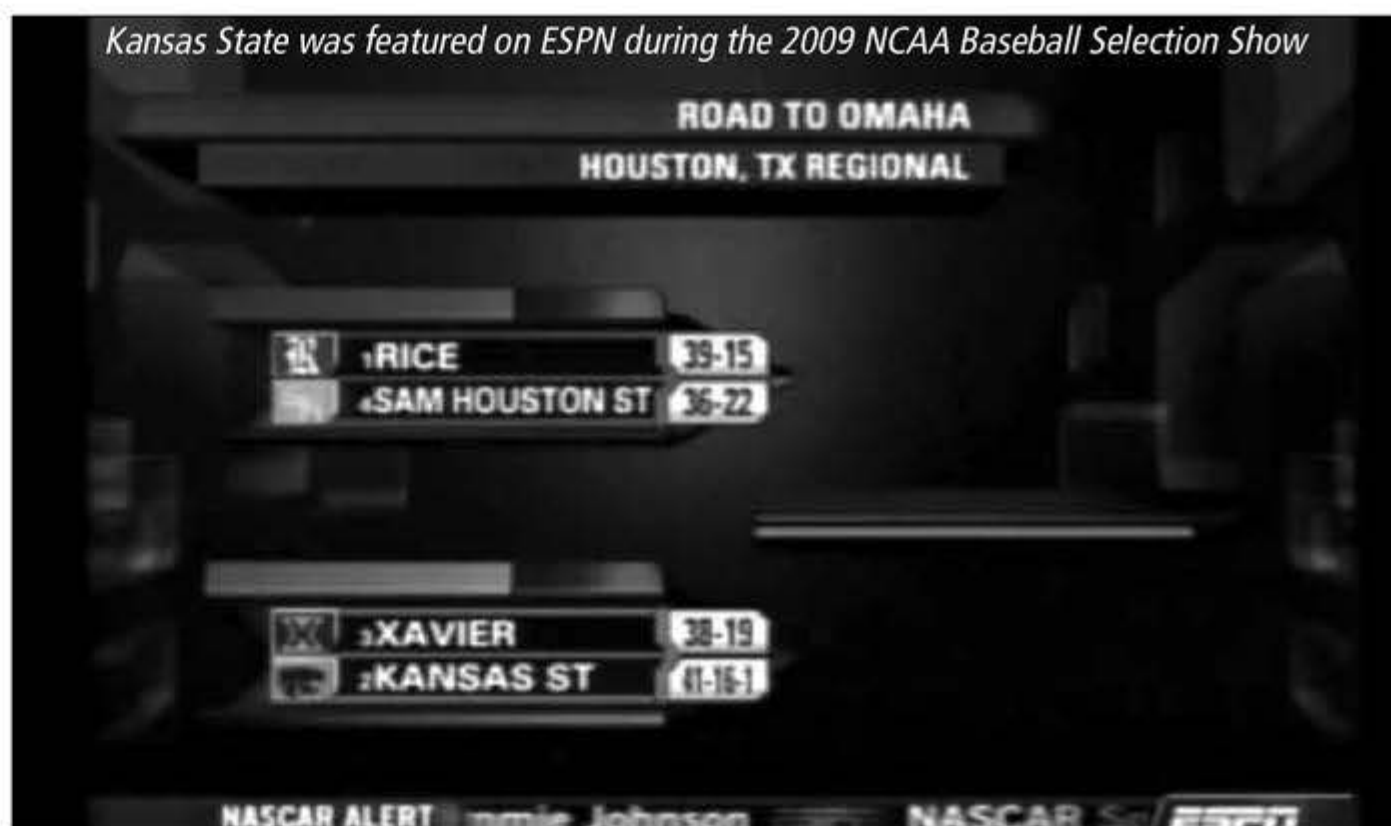

K-STATE BASEBALL IN THE MEDIA

Kansas State Baseball has been in the eyes of the regional and national media through its exposure through the Big 12 Conference, and that exposure increased even more during the historic 2009 season. Former Wildcats are also earning praise during their professional careers. Below is a list of media outlets that feature Kansas State on a regular basis:

- ESPN
- CBS College Sports
- Fox Sports Net
- Rivals.com
- MLB.com
- Baseball America
- Collegiate Baseball
- Kansas City Star
- Wichita Eagle
- Topeka Capital-Journal
- Manhattan Mercury
- Powercat Illustrated/GoPowercat.com

TOP-NOTCH FACILITIES

Settled within Frank Myers Field at Tointon Family Stadium are luxurious offices for the coaching staff, a spacious meeting room for team gatherings and a first-rate locker room facility for the players. The team room is loaded with satellite television receivers, projection televisions and a variety of DVD players for watching game film and scouting reports. The team room also houses a study area containing numerous computers which Wildcat baseball players can use for homework or other personal use.

Members of the Kansas State baseball team have access to top-notch services and facilities available at the Academic Learning Center. The academic staff assesses the academic level of new student-athletes to aid in the advising process. The Academic Learning Center contains a computer lab with 24 work stations and is staffed with specialists to aid in the development of the student. Coaches are provided regular reports on the academic progress of their student-athletes.

K-State also has the luxury of an indoor facility when needed as the Brandeberry Indoor Practice Facility gives the squad the advantage of not missing any practice. The complex is equipped with a FieldTurf playing surface and contains two full-length batting cages, portable pitching mounds and enough area to conduct infield and bullpen workouts.

Brandeberry Indoor Practice Facility is very beneficial to Kansas State during the early stages of the season as the Wildcats hold a majority of their practices in February at Brandeberry. Spring showers are also not a problem as the team can still get the same practice in even if weather conditions are not suitable to outside practices.

Added in time for the 2010 season is a state-of-the-art video system. The system has four permanent cameras: One in center field, one behind the plate and one on top of each dugout. The system, which is the same one used by K-State's men's and women's basketball teams, allows the Wildcat coaching staff to break down individual swings and pitches, while it makes it easier to scout Kansas State and its opponents. The system was paid for in part by donations from members of the Diamond Cats, which consists of K-State baseball alumni.

The players' lounge, located just off the clubhouse, was recently equipped with new leather coaches, as well as a 55 inch plasma television. Inside the clubhouse, a new ping-pong table was added for players to enjoy when not concentrating on academics or baseball. Furthermore, all carpeted areas within the complex were redone and two Powercats, including one in the clubhouse, were added to the carpet.

When not studying or practicing, many players relax in the lounge and watch movies various sporting events on the new plasma TV. The player's lounge gives K-State baseball players a chance to relax in either before or after practice and games, while still spending time with teammates within the complex.

New signage was added to the offices during the offseason as a mural from K-State's appearances in the 2008 Big 12 Championship Title Game and the 2009 NCAA Regional greets the players, staff and visitors when entering the office.

ACADEMIC LEARNING CENTER

Kansas State works hard to provide rich educational development and experience. Having strong educational support will enhance the overall probability of academic success and graduation among our student-athletes. Through the Academic Learning Center and our Academic Staff, players are provided academic support through:

- Learning Specialists
- Academic Advising/Counseling
- Use of Tutorial Services
- Writing Skills
- Time Management
- Goal Setting
- Computer Skills
- Supervised Study Sessions and Facilities
- Faculty Mentoring Program

The Student Services Program is staffed by six full-time academic counselors, including a Life Skills Coordinator, and approximately seventy academic tutors. Each team is assigned an academic counselor who is responsible for contact with designated student athletes, supervision of tutorial services, administration of the team's study sessions and monitoring the student's academic progress. Each counselor works with their students in utilizing program resources, University services, and the academic advising required by their School, College or major department.

FRANK MYERS FIELD AT TOINTON FAMILY STADIUM

One of the most visible changes to the Kansas State program over the past decade has been the complete renovation of the longtime home of the Wildcat baseball team – now called Frank Myers Field at Tointon Family Stadium in honor of Bob and Betty Tointon, the principle benefactors of the stadium improvements. The $3.1 million dollar improvement project makes the 45-year-old stadium not only one of the finest in the Midwest, but also in the fiercely competitive Big 12 Conference.

Officially dedicated on April 20, 2002, before the Wildcats' tilt with Texas, every facet of the stadium has been improved from a new playing surface with state-of-the-art drainage and irrigation systems to new home and visiting dugouts to a new seating bowl with capacity for over 2,300 fans. The bowl itself provides about 1,731 seats (1,631 in the actual bowl and 118 in the suites). FieldTurf was recently installed and covers the entire infield and warning track areas. The field only has two areas with dirt, the pitcher's mound and home plate area, while the outfield grass is the lone area that has natural grass.

The players are treated to a 3,150-square-foot locker room complete with 33 custom-built wood lockers, bathrooms, shower facilities and a team room that includes a new flatscreen TV, new leather couches, study tables and computers. The team is also fortunate to have a sports medicine training room, equipment room, and weight room. The coaches also have spacious offices inside the stadium complete with a conference room and lobby area as well as a coaches' locker room. The weight room, located under the first base grandstand, gives the Wildcat program one of the top weight facilities on-site in the country.

The facility also has added amenities for Wildcat fans with the ability to watch the action from one of five club suites that not only includes the usual comforts of indoor seating, but outdoor seating in purple chairbacks. Surrounding these new suites is a 1,380-square-foot press facility that includes a main press area, radio booths for home and visiting radio as well as a television broadcast booth.

The exterior of the stadium is lined completely with the limestone to match the exterior of many of the campus buildings, including the university's most prominent building, Anderson

Hall. The limestone was donated by the Bayer Stone Company of St. Mary's, Kan.

Improvements continued in the fall of 2003, as a lighting system, an electronic scoreboard, an improved warning track and a permanent ticket booth were added to the facility. The lighting system boasts 152 fixtures mounted on eight poles. Together, they provide 100 foot-candles in the infield and 70 footcandles to the outfield, which meet Class I IEC standards for collegiate baseball venues.

The facility, which was famous for years for its use of a manually-operated scoreboard, now uses a Daktronics state-of-the-art scoreboard. The 20-foot-tall by 36-foot-wide scoreboard provides basic statistics and features an electronic message center for additional live game and player information.

The 1,500 square foot John L. Allen Strength Center is located behind the first base dugout of the stadium and also houses full-time strength coach Scott Bird's office area. Allen, former chief operating officer of the Cincinnati Reds, provided the gift to equip and furnish the new baseball strength training area at Tointon Family Stadium.

Prior to the 2008 season, new purple chairbacks took the place of bleacher seating in the grandstands directly behind home plate to give the growing population of fans a more comfortable environment to enjoy the game.

The stadium was originally dedicated on April 7, 1961, in honor of one-time baseball coach Frank Myers. A student and/or faculty member for over 50 years at Kansas State, Myers was known more for his stint as the director of intramurals from 1948 to 1962. He also served as assistant to three Kansas State athletic directors, including a 20-year stint as the assistant to the legendary Mike Ahearn. In addition to serving as head basketball coach in 1921 and 1922, Myers worked with the Wildcat baseball team for four years – one year as co-head coach with Dougal Russell in 1940 and three years as an assistant. He retired from the university in 1962 before dying at the age of 81 in 1973.

BOB AND BETTY TOINTON

Principle Benefactors
of Tointon Family Stadium

Principle benefactors of Kansas State's $3.1 million renovation to its baseball stadium, Bob and Betty Tointon have supported K-State for many years. After graduating from the university in 1955, they have not only maintained strong ties to K-State, but also advanced higher education in general.

"We are supporting K-State because we feel good about the experiences we had there and because we feel good about what it is today," said Bob Tointon.

In recognition of their generous contribution, the name of the new baseball stadium has been changed to "Frank Myers Field at Tointon Family Stadium."

The Tointon's have been actively involved with K-State for many years. They have been members of the Presidents Club since 1980, and in 1985, they were chairs for the Northern Colorado Presidents Club, and in 2006, were inducted into the Kansas Athletics Hall of Fame. Mrs. Tointon served on the Alumni Association's board of directors from 1982 to 1985, and in 1987, Mr. Tointon received the Distinguished Service Award from the College of Engineering.

WHAT EVERY ALUMNUS AND BOOSTER OF K-STATE ATHLETICS SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE NCAA

Key Points

A 'representative' of Kansas State's athletic interests is: an individual who is known (or who should have been known) by a member of K-State's executive or athletics administration to:

- A) have participated in or to be a member of an agency or organization promoting KSU athletics.
- B) have made financial contributions to the department or to an athletic booster organization of K-State.
- C) have been involved otherwise in promoting the institution's athletic program.
- D) bought or received tickets to a K-State athletics event. Once an person is identified as an 'athletic representative,' the person retains that identity forever.

Key Rule: NCAA BYLAW 13.01.5

In Division I, representatives of athletics interest are prohibited from making in-person, on-or-off campus recruiting contacts, written, telephonic communications or e-mail transactions with a prospect or the prospect's relatives or legal guardians.

Interpretations

1. A representative of a Division I institution is prohibited from making in-person recruiting contact with a prospect and his or her parents/guardian on or off campus.

Limited Exception: You may have contact with a prospect regarding permissible pre-enrollment activities such as summer employment, provided the prospect has already signed a National Letter of Intent and K-State is aware that you are making these contacts in regard to employment.

2. A representative is prohibited from writing or telephoning a prospect and his or her parents or legal guardians.

Limited Exception: You may have a phone conversation with a prospect only if the prospect initiates the call. Such a call may not be prearranged by a K-State staff member and you are not permitted to have a recruiting conversation, but may exhibit normal civility. You must refer any questions about the University's athletic program to the athletic department.

3. A representative is prohibited from contacting a prospect's coach, principal, or counselor in an attempt to evaluate the prospect.

Limited Exception: NCAA rules do not preclude you from viewing a prospect's contest on your own initiative, but you may not contact the prospect, pick up film or transcripts.

What can I do?

If you know of a high school or junior college student-athlete who might want to attend K-State, the only permissible activity for a representative is to call the appropriate coach.

What is an "Extra Benefit?"

An extra benefit would include provision of transportation, meals, clothes, entertainment, preferential loan terms, wages not commensurate with duties, or other benefits offered to a prospect or current student-athlete which is unavailable to the general student population.

What can you do with prospects?

DO feel free to attend high school and junior college athletic events. You cannot have any contact with the prospective student-athletes or relatives. Should you find yourself seated next to parents of a prospect, DO NOT initiate conversation with the relatives. If conversation is initiated, respond in a civil manner, but DO NOT discuss K-State's athletic program with them. If they raise questions about athletics, remind them that the NCAA prohibits you from discussing athletics with them. You MAY discuss the University in general, and its academic programs.

DO continue established family relationships with friends and neighbors. Contact with sons and daughters of those families are permitted as long as they are not made for recruiting purposes and are not prompted by Wildcat coaching staff members. You ARE permitted to play 'pick up' games, continue neighborhood picnics or backyard barbecues and engage in your normal activities with prospects and their parents who are family friends.

DO feel free to attend a public event (i.e. awards dinner) at which prospects are in attendance. NO attempt should be made to contact or recruit the prospect at these events.

What can I do for current K-State athletes?

DO feel free to invite a student-athlete to your home for an occasional meal, but you must first contact the coach in the sport in which the student-athlete is a participant. Remember, the student-athlete must provide his or her own transportation. You may do this a maximum of one time per term per athlete.

DO feel free to invite a team for dinner or to meet with a group of alumni in a city where they are competing. The NCAA permits student-athletes AS A TEAM to receive special benefits not permitted as individuals. Arrangements for such events must be made in advance with the head coach or appropriate athletic staff member.

How can I assist with summer employment?

DO pay student-athletes employed by you for work actually performed and at a rate commensurate with the going rate for similar services in the community and your business.

DO notify the head coaches or the athletic department of job possibilities for student-athletes.

Other questions and answers:

Q. May I accompany the coach during a 'home' visit with the prospect?

A. No

Q. May I drive a prospect to a secondary school's reception in my local area?

A. No, unless such arrangements are made for all students in attendance.

Q. May a booster group finance a season-ending banquet? May it purchase any awards for the team?

A. Yes, provided all funds are expended through the athletic department. Since the NCAA has established a value limit on awards received by student-athletes, it is important to have all awards approved by the athletic department.

Additional reminders:

1. Please contact the athletics department for NCAA rules interpretations.
2. Remember that in most cases CONTACT IS PROHIBITED.
3. Questions: (785) 532-6910. Ask for Jamie Vaughn.
